Art Unit: 1734

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claim 16 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

The originally filed specification fails to teach or suggest a stencil having a first coating applied to one surface of the stencil pattern and one or more side surfaces of the stencilling openings and having a surface tension greater than the surface tension of the stencil pattern; and a second coating applied to the opposite surface of the stencil pattern and having a surface tension less than the surface tension of the stencil pattern wherein at least one of the first coating and second coating includes the means for controlling a running property of an adhesive.

The recitation that "at least one" of the first coating and second coating of the stencil includes the means for controlling a running property of an adhesive is open with the term "comprising" to the stencil having more than a first and second coating which includes the means for controlling a running property of an adhesive which presents new matter since the originally filed specification fails to teach or suggest that the stencil has more than two types of coating – one having a surface tension greater than the stencil pattern and another coating having a surface tension less than the surface tension of the stencil pattern.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 16 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 16 is confusing since it is unclear whether applicant is claiming the second coating or the first coating in its entirety provides the means for controlling the running property of the adhesive or a component of the second coating or first coating provides the means for controlling the running property of the adhesive. Note if applicant is claiming the second coating in its entirety provides the means for controlling the running property of the adhesive then an objection of claim 16 under 37 CFR 1.75 as being a substantial duplicate of claim 11 will follow in the next office action. When one employs means plus function language in a claim such as means for controlling for controlling a running property of an adhesive as set forth in claim 16 then applicant must set forth in the specification adequate disclosure showings what is meant by that language. If applicant fails to set forth an adequate disclosure, then applicant has failed to particularly point out and distinctly claims the invention required by the second paragraph of section 112. See in re Donaldson Co. 16 F.3d 1189, 1195 29 USPQ2d 1845, 1850 (FED. CIR. 1994). Note if the means for controlling the running property of the adhesive is a polymeric material then an objection of claim 16 under 37 CFR 1.75 as being a substantial duplicate of claim 4 will follow in the next office action.

Applicant's arguments filed 2/23/2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant's argument that page 10 lines 5-15 provides support for the second coating including means for controlling a running property of an adhesive is found non-persuasive. It is noted that applicant is silent as whether the second coating or the first coating in its entirety provides the means for controlling the running property of the adhesive or a component of the second coating or first coating provides the means for controlling the running property of the adhesive and therefore unclear what the means for controlling a running property of an adhesive encompasses and therefore the rejection of claim 16 under 35 USC 112, second paragraph is maintained. When one employs means plus function language in a claim such as means for controlling for controlling a running property of an adhesive as set forth in claim 16 then applicant must set forth in the specification adequate disclosure showings what is meant by that language. If applicant fails to set forth an adequate disclosure, then applicant has failed to particularly point out and distinctly claims the invention required by the second paragraph of section 112. See in re Donaldson Co. 16 F.3d 1189, 1195 29 USPQ2d 1845, 1850 (FED. CIR. 1994).

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
